

William Rupert

William Rupert is the Manager of the Energy Program at the Northwest Commission. In this role he manages all of the LDD's energy programs including the northwest Pennsylvania Energy Advisory Council (EAC). He works with local governments, schools, hospitals, and non-profits to assist them with their energy needs by providing onsite visits. Bill also plans and coordinates energy workshops and seminars for clients in the region.

Mr. Rupert holds a BS in Economics as well as a MBA in Marketing from Penn State University. William was the Community Development Specialist for the Commission, before he accepted his current position at the Commission. Prior to that, he worked for Johns Manville as a Marketing Executive specializing in Brand Management and Strategic Customer Relations in Denver, CO.

Bill grew up in Clarion County and has returned to the area with his wife, Alexis, and son, Kyle, to become a part of the Northwest Commission team. They reside in Knox and enjoy being close to family and old friends, and enjoying the many outdoor activities that the area has to offer. Bill relaxes by playing guitar and golfing in his free time.
