

Amber Walters

Amber Walters is an Administrative Assistant at the Northwest Commission. In this capacity, she serves as the receptionist for the Commission. Amber also furnishes administrative support as requested for the planning, transportation, GIS, technology, and other committees of the Commission, including making arrangements for meetings, workshops, seminars, receptions, and training events. She supports and updates the Keystone Opportunity Zone, performance measures, local government, transportation, GIS, technology, and other databases as needed by the Commission.

Ms. Walters attended the DuBois Business College where she completed a 9-month accelerated certificate program to become an Office Assistant. Before starting at the Commission, she was employed at Busy Beaver, 1-800 Contacts, and Super 8 Motel, all, where she performed customer service.

Amber currently resides in Oil City, PA with her husband, Jessup, and daughter, Katelyn. In her spare time, Amber and her daughter work in their garden.
